

ARCHITECTURE

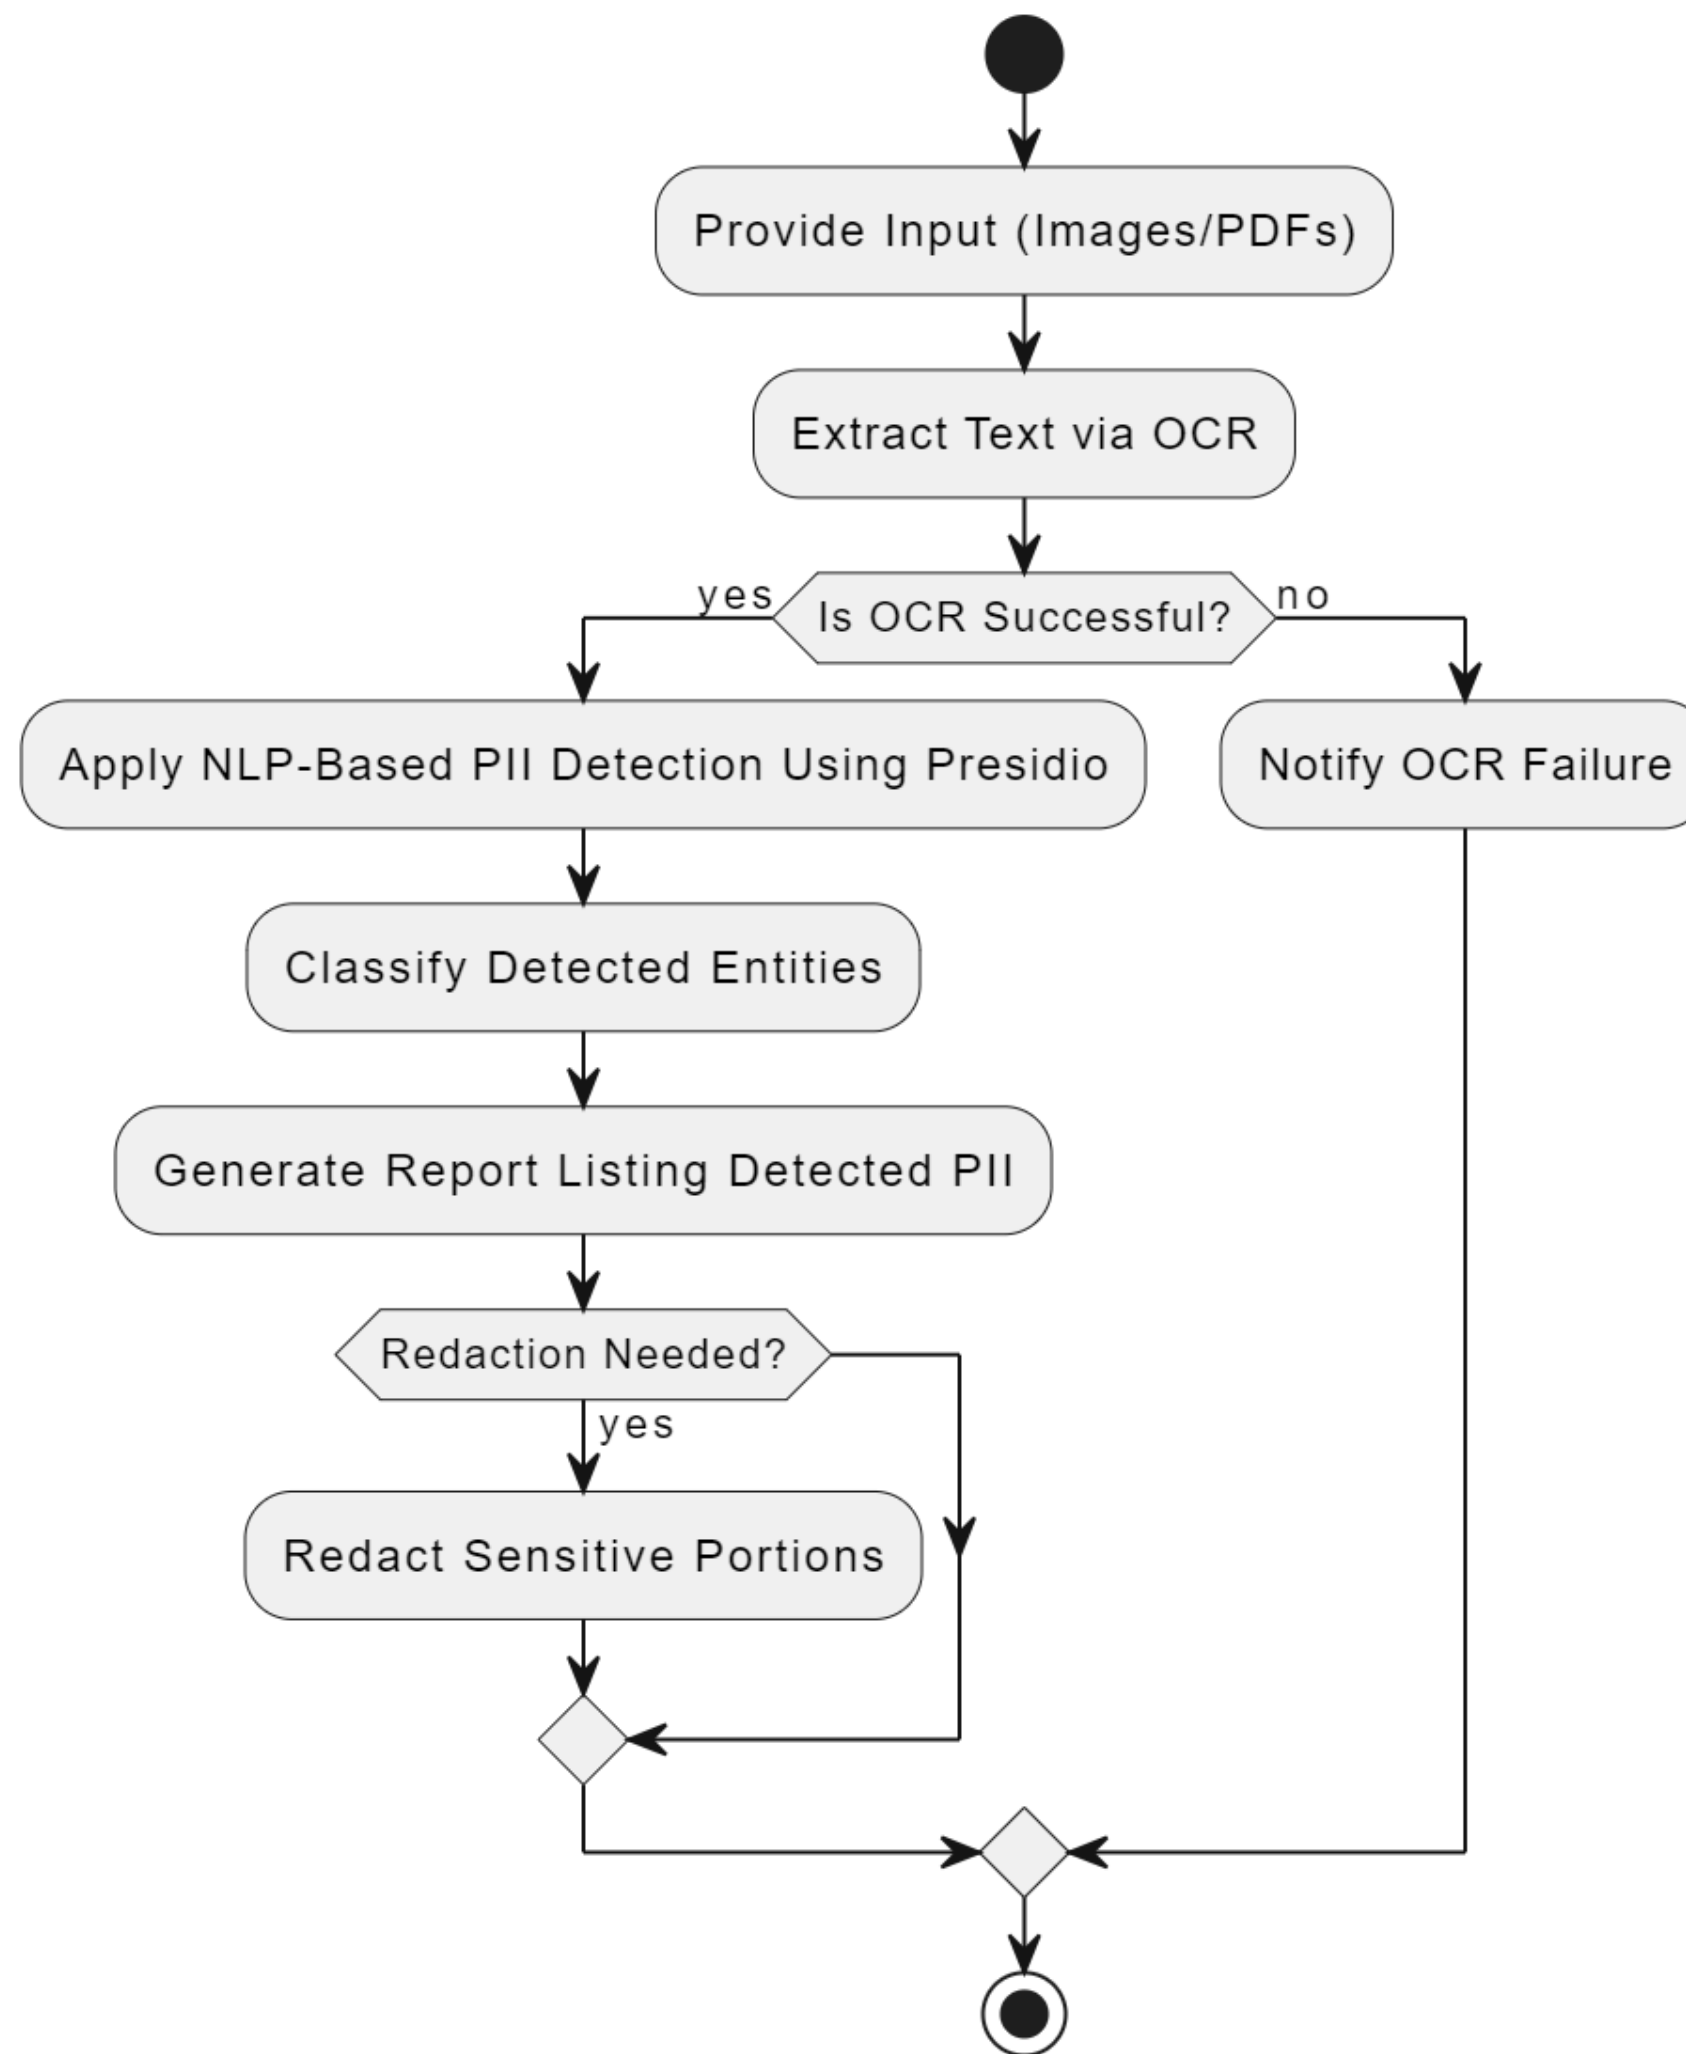

Component Diagram

The purpose of a component diagram is to show the relationship between different components in a system.

Activity diagram

Activity diagrams are graphical representations of workflows of stepwise activities and actions with support for choice, iteration, and concurrency.

Sequence Diagram

Sequence diagrams illustrate object interactions, message flows, and the sequence of operations

